

Using Atla and other EBSCO Databases

EbscoHost is a collection of several databases on various subjects. If you need to locate journal articles for your research, this is where you will begin. This includes the ATLA Religion Database with ATLASerials PLUS (ATLAS PLUS), which is the primary collection of articles, book reviews, and collections of essays in all fields of religion and biblical studies.

Start by selecting EBSCOhost from the database list.

EBSCOhost

EbscoHost is a powerful online reference system. This is where you will find the ATLA Religion Database with ATLASerials PLUS (ATLAS PLUS), providing access to journal articles, book reviews, and collections of essays in all fields of religion. In addition, EBSCOhost provides access to various academic databases and to multidisciplinary eBook titles found in the MOBIUS catalog.

Ebook Central (ProQuest)

Ebook Central provides access to eBooks purchased for Saint Paul students as well as eBooks from trusted publishers in all academic subject areas along with powerful research tools. You can search directly on the Ebook Central webpage or in the KC-Towers catalog to find eBooks available to Saint Paul students.

A personal account is required to download books and chapters, annotate and use the bookshelf. An account is not required to search and read online. When you get to the Ebook Central homepage, click Sign In on the right side of the menu bar to create a personal account.

Encyclopedia of the Bible and Its Reception (EBR)

Published by De Gruyter, EBR is a comprehensive encyclopedia of interdisciplinary and international biblical reception. It includes Hebrew Bible, New Testament, and historical contexts and covers biblical reception in Judaism, Christianity, Islam, and other religions as well as in literature, visual arts, music, and film.

Next you can choose which databases to search. By default, the most commonly used academic databases are selected. The first example uses the entire collection. Further below, we will show an example using only the Atla database.

The screenshot shows the EBSCOhost 'Choose Databases' interface. At the top, there's a navigation bar with links like 'New Search', 'Subjects', 'Publications', 'Images', 'Company Profiles', 'More', 'Sign In', 'Folder', 'Preferences', 'Languages', 'Help', and 'Exit'. Below this, the 'Choose Databases' section is active, with a sub-link 'Select another EBSCO service'. A message states: 'To search within a single database, click the database name listed below. To select more than one database to search, check the boxes next to the databases and click Continue.' A yellow 'Continue' button is visible. Below it, a yellow bar contains a checkbox and the text 'Select / deselect all', with a red arrow pointing to it. The main area lists three databases, each with a checked checkbox and a description:

- Atla Religion Database with AtlaSerials PLUS: Atla Religion Database® with AtlaSerials PLUS® (Atlas PLUS®) combines the premier index to journal articles, book reviews, and collections of essays in all fields of religion with Atla's largest collection of full text religion and theology journals. AtlasPLUS contains more than 530 full text titles, including all AtlaSerials® (Atlas®) titles. This database is produced by Atla, a membership association of collectors and connectors in religion and theology. Links: Title List, More Information.
- AtlaSerials, Religion Collection: AtlaSerials®, Religion Collection contains 360+ full text major religion and theology journals. This database is produced by Atla, a membership association of collectors and connectors in religion and theology. Links: Title List, More Information.
- Academic Search Complete: Academic Search Complete is the world's most valuable and comprehensive scholarly, multi-disciplinary full-text database, with more than 8,500 full-text periodicals, including more than 7,300 peer-reviewed journals. In addition to full text, this database offers indexing and abstracts for more than 12,500 journals and a total of more than 13,200 publications including monographs, reports, conference proceedings, etc. The database features PDF content going back as far as 1887, with the majority of full text titles in native (searchable) PDF format. Searchable cited references are provided for more than 1,400 journals. Links: Title List, More Information.

You can change the selection of databases at any time by following the Choose Databases link.

The screenshot shows the EBSCOhost search results page. At the top, there's a navigation bar with links like 'New Search', 'Subjects', 'Publications', 'Images', 'Company Profiles', 'More', 'Sign In', 'Folder', 'Preferences', 'Languages', 'Help', and 'Exit'. Below this, the EBSCOhost logo is displayed. The search results section shows the search criteria: 'Searching: Atla Religion Database with AtlaSerials PLUS, AtlaSerials, Religion Collection, Academic Search Complete, eBook Collection (EBSCOhost), Humanities International Complete, Bibliography of Native North Americans, Violence & Abuse Abstracts, Child Development & Adolescent Studies, eBook Academic Collection (EBSCOhost), eBook Clinical Collection (EBSCOhost), eBook Community College Collection (EBSCOhost), Library, Information Science & Technology Abstracts with Full Text, Regional Business News, Business Source Premier'. Below the search criteria, there's a search bar with the text 'Enter any words to find books, journals and more' and a 'Search' button. A red arrow points to the 'Choose Databases' link in the search options. Below the search bar, there are links for 'Search Options', 'Basic Search', 'Advanced Search', and 'Search History'. At the bottom, there's a footer with links for 'EBSCO Connect', 'Privacy Policy', 'A/B Testing', 'Terms of Use', 'Copyright', and 'Cookie Policy', and a copyright notice: '© 2020 EBSCO Industries, Inc. All rights reserved.'

Here are the results of a search. The initial basic search gets a lot of hits, but there are plenty of limiters on the left side to narrow down your results. You can limit your results to Full Text, which means only articles you can read immediately. There are times you will want to do this, but I don't recommend this in your first search, because you might miss an important source if you do. You can also limit your results to Scholarly (Peer Reviewed) Journals, which is recommended if you are doing research for a paper. You can also use the slider to limit your results to a range of dates, such as the past 20 years, etc.

When you click on a title, you can see additional details about the item. You have several options to the right. If the article is full text, you can read it on screen, download it or print it. If the article is not full text, however, don't give up.

You can email the article record to the library and ask us to find a copy for you from another library.

Click the email link.

The screenshot shows the EBSCOhost search results page. The search term 'racial justice' is entered in the search bar, and the results are displayed as a list of 4,452 items. The first result is titled 'Reclaiming Reconciliation: The Corruption of 'Racial Reconciliation' and How It Might Be Reclaimed for Racial Justice and Unity'. The record details for this article are shown on the left, including the author (Foster, Douglas A 1952-), source (Journal of Ecumenical Studies, 55 no 1 Wint 2020, p 63-81), and other metadata. On the right side of the record, there is a 'Tools' panel with various options: Google Drive, Add to folder, Print, E-mail, Save, Cite, Export, Create Note, and Permalink. A red arrow points to the 'E-mail' option in the Tools panel.

Add your email to the From field, address the email to splib@spst.edu and fill in the rest of the form.

This screenshot shows the same EBSCOhost search results page, but with the 'E-mail' form open. The form is titled 'E-mail' and contains fields for 'E-mail from:', 'E-mail to:', 'Subject:', and 'Comments:'. The 'E-mail to:' field is pre-filled with 'splib@spst.edu'. The 'Subject:' field is pre-filled with 'article request'. The 'Comments:' field has a placeholder text '(optional) needed by date or other notes'. There are also checkboxes for 'Send in plain text format' and 'Standard Field Format', and a dropdown menu for 'Citation Format'. A red arrow points to the 'E-mail' option in the Tools panel, which is highlighted in the previous screenshot.

By default, EBSCO searches a wide collection of databases. However, if you are researching scripture, you will want to use a special feature found only in the ATLA database.
